

POETRY.

We copy the following from a series of short poems, published in the London New Monthly Magazine, and entitled "Inscriptions." They proceed from the pen of ELLIOTT, the author of Corn Law Rhymes. This person, whose talents and reputation are of a very high character, is a manufacturer of small articles of hardware, in Sheffield, (England)—but he has found time to impress himself deeply upon his age, by the force and strength of his fugitive writings. His is no common mind.

As a politician, he has associated himself in patizan action with some of the first men in England; and his influence and connexion in literature are scarcely less exalted. We love to see this homage to the divinity of intellect. That it is deserved in the case of ELLIOTT, we think the lines ensuing, will of themselves abundantly prove. Whatever the author writes, takes its stand on the holy side of morality and virtue; and he has produced much verse, whose excellent tendency would compare with that of GOLDSMITH.—Philadelphia Gaz.

INSCRIPTIONS:

BY THE AUTHOR OF "CORN LAW RHYMES."
Stop here, seducer! stop awhile!
A villain's victim sleeps below;
She drank the poison of a smile,
And found that landed love is no.
Too true to doubt the lip that lied!
Too trusting maid! too fond to fear;
Too oft they met on Rother's side;
For she was young and he was dear.
Known by the arrow to her breast,
She mourned her bonds—then joined the free!

Now MARY'S sorrows are at rest,
And her sad story speaks to thee.

[From the Western Monthly Magazine.]
THE MOTHERS OF THE WEST.

A spirit resolute, yet so adventurous—so unambitious, yet so exalted—so spirit so highly calculated to awaken a love of the pure and noble, yet so uncommon—never before acclimated the ancestral matrons of any land or clime.
The mothers of our Forest-Land!
Stout-hearted dames were they,
With nerve to wield the battle-brand,
And join the border-fray.
Our rough land had no braver one,
In its days of blood and strife—
Aye, ready for severest toil,
Aye, free to peril life.

The Mothers of our Forest-Land!
On Old Kan-tue-kee's soil;
How shared they, with each dauntless band,
War's tempest, and Life's toil;
They sank not from the foe-man—
They quailed not in the fight—
But cheer'd their husbands through the day
And soothed them through the night.

The Mothers of our Forest-Land!
Their bosoms pillow'd men;
And proud were they to stand,
In hammock, fort or glen,
To load the sure old rifle—
To run the leaden ball—
To stand beside a husband's place,
And fill it should he fall.

The Mothers of our Forest-Land!
Succa were their daily deeds.
Their monument where does it stand?
Their epitaph—who reads it?
No braver dames had Sparta,
No nobler matrons Rome—
And yet who lauds or honors them!
In their last, their own green home!

The Mothers of our Forest-Land!
They sleep in unknown graves;
And had they borne and nursed a band
Of ingrates or of slaves,
They'd not been more neglected!
But their graves shall yet be found,
And their monuments dot here and there
The Dark and Bloody Ground.

THE SOLDIER'S RETURN.

The following beautiful instance of filial affection deserves to be handed down to the latest generations: Some travellers from Glasgow were obliged to stop at the burgh of Lanark, and having nothing better to engage our attention, said one of them, we amused ourselves by looking at the passengers from the window of our inn, which was opposite the prison.—Whilst we were thus occupied, a gentleman came on horseback, very plainly dressed, attended by a servant. He had scarcely passed our window, when he alighted, left his horse, and advanced towards an old man who was engaged in paving the streets.

After having saluted him, he took hold of the hammer, struck some blows upon the pavement, at the same time addressing the old man who stood amazed at the adventure. "This work seems to be very painful for a person of your age; have you no sons who could share in your labors, and comfort your old age?" "The oldest has obtained the rank of captain in India, in the service of the Honorable company. The second has likewise enlisted in the hope of rivaling his brother." The old man paused, and a momentary tear bedimmed his eye. "And pray what has become of the third?" "Alas! he became security for me: the poor boy engaged to pay my debts, being unable to fulfil the undertaking, he is—in prison." At this recital the gentleman stepped aside a few paces, and covered his face with his hands. After having thus given vent to his feelings, he returned to the old man and resumed his discourse.—"And has the oldest—this degenerate son—this captain—never sent any thing to extricate you from your miseries?" "Ah! call him not degenerate; my son is virtuous: he both loves and respects his father. He has often than once sent me money, even more than was sufficient for my wants, but I had the misfortune to lose it by becoming security for a very worthy man, my landlord, who was burdened with a large family. Unfortunately, finding himself unable to pay, he has caused my ruin. They have taken my all, and nothing now remains for me." At this moment a young man, passing his head through the iron gratings of a window in the prison began to cry, "Father! father! if my brother William is still alive that is he, he is the gentleman who speaks with you." "Yes, my friend, it is he," replied the gentleman, throwing himself in to the old man's arms, who like one beside himself at the sight, and sobbing, had not recovered his senses, when an old woman decently dressed, rushed from a poor looking hut, crying, "Where is he then?" "Where art thou my dear William?" "Come to me, come and embrace your mother." The captain no sooner observed her, than he quitted his father, and went to throw himself upon the neck of the good old dame.

The scene was now overpowering; the travellers quit the room, and increased the number of spectators, witnesses of this most affecting sight. Mr. Wilson, one of the travellers, made his way through the crowd, and advancing to the gentleman thus addressed him:—Captain, we ask the honor of your acquaintance: it is impossible to express the pleasure we have had in being witness of this tender meeting with your family; we request the favor of you and yours to dinner at the inn. The captain alive to the invitation, replied that he would neither eat or drink until his youngest brother had recovered his liberty. At the same instant he deposited the sum for which he had been incarcerated.

As soon as there was an opportunity for free conversation, the good soldier unbosomed his heart to his parents and the travellers. "Gentlemen," said he, "to-day I fell in its full extent, the kindness of Providence, to whom I owe every thing. My uncle brought me up to the business of a weaver, but I required his attentions badly; for having contracted a habit of idleness and dissipation, I enlisted in a corps belonging to the East India Company. I was then little more than eighteen. My soldier-like appearance had been observed by Lord Clifton, the commanding officer, with whose beneficence and inexhaustible generosity all Europe is acquainted. My zeal for the service inspired him with regard; and thanks to his care, I rose step by step to the rank of captain, and was entrusted with the funds of the regiment.—By dint of economy and the aid of commerce, I amassed honorably a stock of £30,000. At that time I quitted the service. It is true that I made three remittances to my father; but the first only, consisting of £200, reached him. The second fell into the hands of a man who had the misfortune to become insolvent: and I entrusted a third to a Scottish gentleman who died upon the passage, but I hold his receipts, and his heirs will account to me for it."

After dinner, the captain gave his father £200, to supply his most pressing wants, and at the same time secured to his mother an annuity of eighty pounds, reversible to his two brothers. Besides he presented £500 as a marriage portion to his sister, who was married to a farmer in indifferent circumstances: and after distributing £50 among the poor, he entertained at an elegant dinner the principal inhabitants of the burgh. Such a man merited the favors of fortune. By this generous sensibility, too, he showed, indeed that he was worthy of the distinguished honors so profusely heaped upon him by the illustrious Lord Clifton.

BECKWITH'S PILLS

ANTI-DYSPEPTIC

FOR the cure of almost every variety of functional disorders of the Stomach, Bowels, Liver and Spleen; such as heart burn, acid eructations, nausea, head-ache, pain and distention of the stomach, and bowels; indigestion, diarrhoea, flatulence, habitual constiveness, loss of appetite, sick head-ache, sea-sickness, &c. &c. They are a safe and comfortable aperient for Females during pregnancy and subsequent confinement, relieving sickness at the stomach, head-ache, heart-burn and many of the incidental nervous affections. Literary men, students and most other persons of sedentary habits, find them very convenient. Those who indulge too freely in the pleasures of the Table, find speedy relief from the sense of oppression and distention which follow, by taking the Pills. As a dinner Pill, they are invaluable. Those who are drinking mineral waters, and particularly those from southern climates and ague and fever districts, will find them a valuable adjunct. Those who are exposed to the vicissitudes of weather, on voyages or journeys, can take them at all times with perfect safety. In full doses, they are a highly efficacious and safe Anti-bilious Medicine. They seldom or never produce sickness at the stomach or griping.

Their efficacy is strongly attested by certificates from the following gentlemen, viz:

Bishop Ives, Rev. Dr. McPheeters, Rev. G. W. Freeman, Rev. T. Blake, Gov. Iredell, Hon. Henry Potter, Hon. G. E. Badger, Hon. Richard Hines, Thos. P. Devereux, Esq., Professor Anderson, Wm. Hill, Esq., Secretary of State, Wm. S. Moon, Esq., late Treasurer; Jas. Grant, Esq., late Comptroller; W. R. Gales, Esq., of the Register; Capt. Guion's Hotel; Dr. R. C. Bond, Dr. E. Crosby, Dr. J. Y. Young, Rev. F. L. Hawks, &c. Ample Directions accompany each Box.

These Pills are for sale, by appointment, in almost every Town in the United States, and Wholesale and Retail by the Subscribers, to whom applications may be made for Agencies.

BECKWITH & JUMP. 107-1f.

REMEDY FOR ASIATIC CHOLERA.

CHOLERA MORBUS, DIARRHŒA, &c. &c. Prepared only, and sold by the sole Proprietor, ROBERT S. BERNARD, Druggist, Norfolk, Va.

Price $1.—Patent right secured.

In consequence of the very great and increasing demand for this invaluable preparation, induced by the many cures which have been effected by the use of it in cases of Asiatic Cholera, common Cholera Morbus in children, and disorders of the Bowels generally, the proprietor has prepared, and will continue to keep on hand, a large supply.

This Remedy has been used by many eminent Physicians, some of whom have charge of large Hospitals in the United States, where the Cholera has prevailed to a great extent, and been fatal to intertemperate, aged, and lunatic persons. Their confidence in this Medicine is such that they say they are not afraid of the most inveterate cases of Asiatic Cholera, when taken in time.

DIRECTIONS.

Take a table-spoonful of the mixture, with the same quantity of water, every hour or half hour, as occasion may require, until vomiting, purging, and pains have ceased. In common ordinary cases of Diarrhœa, a table-spoonful of the mixture may be taken three or four times a day and repeated at night, upon going to bed. This medicine has been administered to children afflicted with diarrhœa, or Cholera Morbus, Cholera Infantum, and Summer Complaints, with complete success. In no case has it failed to cure the most inveterate attack. The best mode of administering it to young children, is to take a tea-spoonful of the mixture, and mix it with the same quantity of water, giving it as above directed—a little sugar may be added, to make it more palatable. Keep the bottle well corked.

Undoubted testimony of the efficacy of the above Medicine may be seen at the Standard Office—where it is kept for sale.

Raleigh, N. C. Aug. 18. 94-1f.

JOHN BRAGG, Attorney at Law, Mobile, Alabama.

As J. B. will practice in the United States District Court at Mobile, he will attend to the speedy collection of all claims that may be due to persons in other States, in any part of South Alabama.

Mobile, Nov. 10, 1836. 106-1f.

DR. PRATT'S Artificial Nipple Shield.

FOR the prevention and cure of Sore Nipples. The following highly respectable certificates are deemed a sufficient recommendation for those who are afflicted in this manner, to try them.

From Doctor Wm. P. Dewees, late Professor of Obstetrics, in the Medical University of Philadelphia:

Doct. ELIJAH PRATT:

DEAR SIR: As I feel it a matter of much public importance, to possess a means of lessening the terrible sufferings from sore Nipples, I have much pleasure in being able to say, that the "Shield" you offer for the preventing and the cure of this malady, is better adapted to the purpose than any I have heretofore seen. In the two or three instances I have known them to be used, much satisfaction has been expressed, and I have no hesitation to believe it will generally succeed: I am so well persuaded of this, at this moment, that I cannot forbear to express a wish that our city, through the various Apothecaries, may be supplied with them. I am yours, &c.

M. P. DEWEES, M. D.

Philadelphia, Jan. 13, 1834.

From Dr. Thomas Seawall, Professor of Anatomy and Physiology, Columbia College, District of Columbia:

WASHINGTON CITY, 4TH FEB., 1834.

Having examined Dr. Pratt's newly invented Nipple Shields, and witnessed its practical application, among my patients, I take great pleasure in recommending it as decidedly superior to anything previously known. It constitutes a perfect remedy for that distressing malady, Sore Nipples, a disease which so frequently afflicts young women.

THOMAS SEAWALL, M. D.

The above instrument is for sale, at the moderate price of $2 50 cents,—by

WILLIAMS, HAYWOOD & CO. Raleigh, Feb. 1836.
